The 24th International Congress of Zoology (ICZ) (Second Circular)

The 24th International Congress of Zoology (ICZ) will be held on October 26-29, 2025 in Beijing, China. The theme of this congress is "Biological Consequences of Global Changes (BCGC)", to discuss the cause, impact and management of global change on wildlife related to biodiversity loss, biological invasion, pest outbreak, disease transmission and resource management.

The Congress is organized by the International Society of Zoological Sciences (ISZS); hosted by Institute of Zoology, Chinese Academy of Sciences and School of Ecology, Hainan University; sponsored by Department of International Affairs, China Association of Science and Technology, Bureau of International Cooperation, Chinese Academy of Sciences, Beijing International Science and Technology Exchange Center, International Union of Biological Sciences, and Integrative Zoology.

The Congress will cover broad aspects of zoology, such as animal behavior, animal physiology, animal ecology, biological invasion, conservation biology, zoonotic diseases and environmental ethics. During the Congress, general assembly session for ISZS will be held. For those who want to organize a session or symposium, please contact Dr. Ming Liu (E-mail: liuming@ioz.ac.cn; Mobile: +86-13621348686). In the proposal, please provide the title of the session or symposium and information about speakers (at least 6 persons) including their institution information, contact address, and presentation titles.
